

Phasing Out the Juvenile Justice System in California

Photo by David Gross /
KQED

San Francisco's KQED public radio offers this piece about California Governor Jerry Brown's proposal to eliminate the state's juvenile justice system over the next three years, a move that could save the state more than $100 million.